Glasgow is Scotland's largest city with a population in excess of 600,000 people. Over 60,000 students attend the five higher education institutions within Glasgow making it a young and vibrant city both to live and work in. Glasgow University, Strathclyde University and Glasgow School of Art are all institutions of world renown.

The subjects are located on the south side of Hotspur Street, at its junction with Northumberland Street in the North Kelvinside area of the city, in the heart of the West End. The location lies around 2.5 miles west of the city centre. Hotspur Street is located close to both Maryhill Road and Great Western Road, which are both main arterial routes, running northwest and west out of the city respectively. Great Western Road (A82) is a major trunk road that connects Glasgow with Inverness, Fort William and Oban. Hotspur Street is located just off Queen Margaret Drive, which links both Great Western Road and Maryhill Road.

The location is well served by access to the transport network. Access to the motorway network is available within 1.5 miles on Great Western Road, at Junction 17 of the M8. This provides onward access to the national network via the M77, M73 and M80. Public transport is also close by with both Maryhill Road and Great Western Road being busy bus routes. Hillhead Underground Station is approximately a 15-minute walk to the south on Byres Road, and this provides access to the suburban rail network at Partick Station and the mainline network at Queen Street Station.

DESCRIPTION

The subjects comprise a fairly level and regularly shaped site upon which sits several buildings, including a three-storey, red sandstone building which was formerly a school building (Garrioch school), a number of smaller red sandstone buildings which are partly single and partly two storey, several modular portacabin type units and a two storey modern residential dwelling. There is a large surfaced car park facility with approximately 30 car spaces.

The main former school building, constructed in circa 1900, is laid out internally to provide office/studio and classroom accommodation over three levels, surrounding a feature central atrium.

The property is Category B listed by Historic Environment Scotland and is located within the Glasgow West Conservation Area.

The property has been comprehensively refurbished to include; new heating system, replacement timber windows and roof refurbishment.
