STEVENAGE

Stevenage is the major office centre in north Hertfordshire which includes headquarters facilities occupied by Fujitsu, Glaxo SmithKline, Airbus, MBDA and IET.

Stevenage is located between junctions 7 and 8 of the A1(M) approximately 30 miles north of Central London.

It is the first inter-city rail-link north of Kings Cross to which it offers a superb service with a shortest journey time of just 19 minutes.

The town has a major pedestrianised town centre including most major multiples, a major Leisure Park including a cinema and David Lloyd, a major out-of-town retail park (close by) at Roaring Meg and the attractive old town area offering a range of specialty shops, pubs and restaurants. There is an ASDA supermarket opposite.

Stevenage benefits from a highly integrated network of dual carriageways with a segregated pedestrianised route direct to the station.

The town is also served by two regional airports with Luton 15 miles to the West, and Stansted is 29 miles to the East.

LOCATION

The property occupies a prime location in an imposing setting on the edge of the town centre close to Stevenage intercity railway station.

The site is famous for its six romano-british burial mounds aligned along the old Roman road which passes in front of the property.

The site is framed by handsome Cedars of Lebanon.
